EVAN BARNETT

Evan Barnett is a 23 year veteran of the waterpark industry. At just age 16 he started as a park services employee cleaning up trash and restrooms. Not a glamorous job, but one that highlights Barnett's servant leadership attitude and mindset. Barnett is an energetic, confident leader. Budgets and business planning aside, he is the kind of guy you want to work for. Barnett brings his heart to work and has a unique ability to really connect with people—employees and park guests, alike. He's developed such rapport and respect among his team that everyone buys in fully, creating high performing teams. Under his leadership, the park has received the Executive Board Award from the World Waterpark Association and the Brass Ring Award for the best employee recognition program from IAAPA. Currently, Barnett serves as the President for Typhoon Texas, Houston's premier waterpark destination. Barnett is a proud dad, and it's not unusual to find him serving as the makeup canvas for his two young daughters or struggling to braid their hair. One thing you can be sure of—his commitment to and pursuit of excellence is unbreakable.

Justin Brown is the Senior Manager of Water Quality and Environmental Affairs at Universal Orlando Resort. He is responsible for all water quality operations within the resort's three theme parks including seventeen pools and attractions at Universal's Volcano Bay, three water attractions at Universal's Islands of Adventure and dozens of fountains and interactive water features. Brown also oversees resort-wide aquatic weed control, storm water conveyance and hazardous waste disposal. He leads a team of skilled technicians and supervisors from a wide array of backgrounds including plumbing, electrical and industrial water treatment. Prior to joining the Universal Orlando Resort team, Brown was the Director of Aquatics at DelGrosso's Park and Laguna Splash in Tipton, Pennsylvania. In this role he was charged with the management of all waterpark operations including guest arrival, aquatic risk management, park services and maintenance. While at DelGrosso's and Laguna Splash, Brown led the company's largest park expansion project in its 72 year history which included a new main entrance, wave pool, "lazy" river and five new food venues. While earning his MBA at Penn State University, Brown served as the Coordinator of Aquatics at McCoy Natatorium. In this position he was responsible for all pool operations, special event coordination and risk management procedures for the university's aquatic center. Brown's lifeguards from Penn State University have excelled on the national level, starring in various American Red Cross training materials and winning the collegiate Guard Wars competition in 2013. Brown is passionate about teaching and developing pool operators, lifeguards and other aquatics personnel. He has an extensive background as a coach, instructor and aquatics administrator at the municipal, non-profit and higher education levels. He holds certifications as a Pool & Hot Tub Alliance Instructor, Emergency Medical Technician and Lifeguard Instructor Trainer. Originally from Lancaster, Pennsylvania, Brown is a resident of Orlando, Florida. He is an avid road cyclist, runner and SCUBA diver.

CODY BUTCHER

Cody Butcher brings Neuman Group a vast and diverse knowledge of waterpark facilities from an operational perspective.

As the Aquatics Coordinator for a community association, he was responsible for the operations and staff of a large indoor and outdoor facility for five years. Butcher then spent ten years growing his knowledge and passion for aquatics with the Great Wolf Lodge organization. With experience in a variety of positions, he ultimately advanced his understanding and respect for the impact that operations have on the aquatics facility by acting as a Certified Pool/Spa Operator Instructor and by getting involved with the CMAHC and Jeff Ellis & Associates Advisory Board. Butcher cares about providing a safe and entertaining environment that exceeds guests' expectations while also addressing the challenges of efficiency and profitability in the corporate world.

BARRETT BYERS

Barrett Byers is currently the General Manager at Hydro Adventures, a family entertainment center and seasonal waterpark in Southeast Missouri. He started his career in the amusement park industry in 1996 at Cedar Point in Sandusky, Ohio. While attending Fairmont State University in Fairmont, West Virginia, he was hired as a ride host at a college job fair. This sparked his interest in amusement parks and waterparks that would continue to grow and set the stage for his career. During his second season at Cedar Point, Byers joined the aquatic technician crew and was later promoted to seasonal leadership. Just after graduating from college, and while attending his first of 16 International Aquatic Safety School sessions, he was offered a full-time position at Cedar Point. As area manager of Challenge Park, he oversaw its many amusements and attractions, including the Sky Coaster, go-kart tracks, 32-hole mini-golf course, six hotel pools and spas, a mile-long beach, a petting zoo and the newly expanded Soak City. Byers has the distinction of being part of the management team that opened Cedar Point's first indoor waterpark, Castaway Bay. Shortly after marrying his wife, Elisa, he was offered the position of operations manager at Knott's Soak City in Palm Springs, California, a position he held for nine years. He was promoted to General Manager when the park changed to Wet 'n Wild Palm Springs. He worked at that location for an additional 18 months before accepting the Maintenance Manager position at Raging Waters Sacramento. In this role, Byers was involved with numerous capital projects, was liaison to the California Department of Safety and Health and assisted upper management with the daily difficulties involved in running an aging waterpark. Amidst this fulfilling opportunity, Byers decided to accept an offer from Hydro Adventures in Southeast Missouri as General Manager. At Hydro Adventures, he has been instrumental in every aspect of operations and maintenance. During his tenure, the park has added seven amusement rides including 2 rollercoasters, laser tag, a 40-game arcade and a tropical themed bar. Byers is a CPO, AFO, Ellis & Associates Instructor Trainer, NAARSO Level 1 inspector and AIMS Amusement ride and device level 1 inspector. Over the course of his career, Byers has been an enthusiastic and dedicated manager. He takes great pride in the fact that at least 12 of his past employees now work full-time as managers or above in the amusement park industry.

JUSTIN CARON

Justin Caron has worked with more than 130 municipalities and park and recreation districts and at over 25 colleges and universities as they studied, planned, programmed, designed and constructed new or renovated aquatic centers. THANKS TO #WWASHOW!

LOUIS CIRIGLIANO, JR.

In 2005, Lou Cirigliano, Jr. took over the operations of Breakwater Beach Waterpark. In 2009, Breakwater Beach was the recipient of the WWA's Kelly Ogle Memorial Safety Award. In 2010, 2011 and 2012, Breakwater Beach was chosen as one of the best family attractions in Ocean County, New Jersey by readers of the Asbury Park Press. Breakwater Beach was also voted favorite family attraction in 2011 by readers of NJ.com in an online poll. Cirigliano proudly served on the WWA Board of Directors from 2011 until 2013 and was the treasurer from 2012-2013. He was promoted to Director of Operations of Casino Pier and Breakwater Beach on October 1, 2012 and was quickly put to the test after tragedy struck due to Superstorm Sandy. Cirigliano resigned from the board to concentrate on the recovery efforts as Casino Pier was the "face of the storm" on the Eastern seaboard. Their roller coaster, "The Jet Star," fell into the Atlantic Ocean with 5 other major rides, with most of their pier and boardwalk damaged beyond repair. In 2014, 2015 and 2016, his properties (Casino Pier and Breakwater Beach) won favorite outdoor amusement in Ocean County from the readers of the Asbury Park Press. Cirigliano has been an instructor on the WWA University: Ready, Set, Go! A Guide to Getting Started Workshop panel for several years, sharing his waterpark experiences and inspiring new waterpark operators. No stranger to public speaking, he has participated in many WWA educational programs as a presenter as well, and has served on the WWA Government Relations Committee. Cirigliano was honored with an Executive Board Award from WWA in 2016. Cirigliano is a proud graduate of Rutgers University in 1986, and currently lives in Middletown, New Jersey with his daughters, Taylor & Allie.

She gained marketing knowledge at West Virginia State University and Roosevelt University. Her expertise includes recruiting, hiring and training diverse talent to achieve overall goals. Throughout her career, Cochran has conducted regional roll out meetings, opened new store locations, conducted train-the-trainer programs and exceeded sales projections. Cochran successfully merged six front desk teams into one team serving six locations. She has implemented an extensive new team member training program and serves as a leader for Bolingbrook Park District on customer service.

TYLER CURRIE

Tyler Currie is currently the General Manager of Daytona Lagoon in Daytona Beach, Florida. He started as a seasonal lifeguard in 1996 at Soak City Cedar Point. He worked his way up to Supervisor at Soak City and at the end of the 1999 season had the opportunity to move out to California and take part in opening the first Knott's Soak City next to Knott's Berry Farm the summer of 2000. After opening the park, he then was asked to become the Operations Manager at the Second Knott's Soak City in San Diego, and later became the Operations/Maintenance Manager at that facility until 2007. In 2007, he became the General Manager of Knott's Soak City in Palm Springs. After the 2009 waterpark season, Currie moved back to San Diego to be the General Manager of Knott's Soak City San Diego until it was sold to SeaWorld at the end of 2012. He then had the opportunity to move up to Santa Clara and become the Director of Park Operations at California's Great America Amusement Park and Water Park and work very closely with the San Francisco 49ers on traffic/parking plans at the new stadium next to the park. Currie ended his 20-year career with Cedar Fair at the end of 2015. He joined the United Parks Team and made a quick stop at Hydro Adventures in Poplar Bluff, Missouri for one year. In 2017, he became the General Manager at Daytona Lagoon, a year-round family entertainment center with a seasonal (a long season) waterpark. Currie has been an Ellis & Associates Lifeguard Instructor since 2000 and held his CPO certification for many years. He has also always prided himself as a well-rounded employee with experience in both operations and maintenance, as well as in finance.

ROB DECKER

With a career spanning 35 years, Rob Decker's focus has been to conceive and launch strategic initiatives to generate excitement for guests while leading the design and development of projects that in total exceed $2 billion. With a love to entertain and create, the theme park/waterpark resort environment became his perfect laboratory. "When I approach a new project, I like to let the guest's voice lead me to create a better experience. The business case and market condition will shape the project, but ultimately my role is to create a strong sense of place, wonderment and fun for our guests." Decker recently retired as the Senior Vice President of Planning & Design for the Cedar Fair Entertainment Company after 20 years of service. Prior to joining Cedar Fair, he served as an architect and master planner at internationally recognized firms on the East Coast before taking a lead role as Design Director at Jack Rouse & Associates.

ALICIA M. SMITH, ESQUIRE

Alicia M. Smith is a trial attorney who has spent nearly 20 years representing the amusement, sports and entertainment industries. She has obtained defense verdicts and dismissals on behalf of her clients throughout Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Florida.

Having recently returned to Florida, she continues to represent the industry as a shareholder with the law firm of Marshall, Dennehey, Warner, Coleman and Goggin in their Tampa location. Smith received her Juris Doctorate from Florida State University along with her master's degree in international affairs in 1999 all while working with the Florida Senate Transportation Community. An avid traveler and lover of languages, she has worked as a waitress in the Alps, studied in Oxford, repaired a roof in Fiji and married in Italy. Having been raised up in a small family business, Smith's favorite aspects of her career are the people she has met and the perspectives they have given her. Her proudest moment is a trial win obtained during a tornado. Her number one litigation survival tip is a sense of humor, but never in writing.

KIMBERLY SMITH

Kimberly Smith joined Bolingbrook Park District in 2000 as the district's first Marketing Coordinator. Over the past 15 years, she has grown the district's marketing and customer care department to a team of five full-time staff and 20 part-time staff members. She earned her B.S. degree in business administration from Carroll University and her master's of strategy, leadership and management from Michigan State. Smith gained sports marketing experience with the Milwaukee Wave, Milwaukee Bucks and Pettit National Ice Center. While holding those positions, she assisted with national and international skating events, including Olympic Trials and World Championships for speed-skating, game-day operations and overall ticket sales. She then moved to the non-profit sector working with the YMCA of Metropolitan Chicago. Smith has applied her diverse work experience to Bolingbrook Park District where she now manages the district's marketing, communications and customer care functions.

MANDY SMITH

Mandy Smith has nearly 20 years' experience working in the travel industry—primarily focused on museums. She has served as a director of sales and account management, headed up visitor experiences at Chabot Space and Science Center and taught a course on museums and technology at the University of San Francisco. She currently works on the Experiences team for TripAdvisor helping attractions optimize their TripAdvisor listing.

RYAN G. SNYDER

Raised in a family of inventors, engineers and artisans, Ryan G. Snyder, as a formally trained design/build architect, now focuses on the product & business development of sustainable entertainment solutions with Infinite Kingdoms. Snyder is a versatile, creative professional with over 30 years' experience in storytelling, full scope branding/apparel design, architecture/planning, themed entertainment, resorts, product development, manufacturing and construction. Past clientele have included Disney Resorts, Kalahari Resorts and Wilderness Resorts, Six Flags, Warner Bros. and a wide variety of unique adventure, Olympic, parks and recreation and educational memory-making venues globally. Snyder is also the founder and Immersive Experience Officer of Immersive LEAP and Immersive Aquatics where he combines a child's-eye perspective with operational, fabrication & construction practicality while applying a hands-on partnership approach to innovative product and project development. Holding a professional master's of architecture/professional practice degree from Norwich University, Snyder's favorite questions are "Why?" and "Why not?"

DANA STANIUNAS

Dana Staniunas began his career in the indoor waterpark industry in March of 2003 as Operations Manager of Splash Lagoon Indoor Water Park Resort in Erie, Penn. Having no waterpark experience, he dove into the position, learning all about aquatics, building maintenance, water chemistry and team development. Fast forward to 2005, he was recruited to be part of the new management team for the Massanutten WaterPark, slated to open at the end of that year. He began as the Assistant WaterPark Manager, earning the manager title a short 6 months later, and was promoted to Director of Recreation at Massanutten in 2012. Staniunas is widely regarded throughout the country as a knowledgeable source of information about the indoor waterpark business. He is regularly called upon to help new parks—whether that is with best hiring practices, locations of break rooms, pump rooms, arcades or food service areas. He keeps a clean and safe park and continues to improve the guest experience with meticulous attention to detail and training. Massanutten WaterPark is one of the top attractions in the state and that is surely due to his commitment to the business, his team and the industry.

SCOTT STEFANC

As a programmer, designer and project manager, Scott Stefanc has over 23 years' experience in the design & development of aquatic facilities including waterparks, splashpads, aquatic centers and aquatic amenities for resorts & hotels. MELISSA TIMCO

Beginning her professional amusement industry career at IAAPA as a marketing intern in 2009, Melissa Timco started out maintaining online content and fine-tuning details for the association's upcoming events. Eventually this segued into an opportunity with Premier Rides' (Baltimore, MD) Parts and Service Department, where she focused on project management and administration of their ride service projects. This led to a role near her hometown's Ralph S. Alberts Co. (Montoursville, PA), where for 5 years Timco was Director of Operations for all manufacturing and sales functions. In May of 2018, Timco was announced as the new Director of Amusement Park Division at Baynum Painting, Inc., the industry's premier global provider of ride coating services. She can be seen actively participating at trade association events for WWA, IAAPA, NAARSO, AIMS, NJAA, NEAAPA and PAPA. Today, Timco manages Baynum projects throughout the AP division, cultivating key client and vendor relationships, and helping direct the growth efforts as one of the industry's top service providers for ride renovation and slide restoration worldwide.
